

Dori Martin, Marketing Manager

“What an honor and pleasure it is to service the students, faculty and staff at The Georgia Institute of Technology. I have had the privilege to form relationships with people from all departments across this campus. There has been nothing more rewarding in my career than to watch this Institute’s ability to effectively accomplish common goals across all sectors.

I can never begin to re-pay those who have given both their time and resources to me without hesitation. Their helping hands have impressed me from both a professional and personal standpoint. Over the last year and a half I have learned more than I thought possible about goodwill, personal integrity, dedication, reliability and the importance of teamwork.”
